Justine will be exhibiting a variety of paintings on scratchboard, clay board and canvas with sizes from 4x6", 5x7" all the way to 16 x 20", 18 x 24" and 30 x 40". Her recent 5 x 7" "Copa de Oro" is a scene of golden poppies nestled among Sedona's red rocks. "Desert Twilight" is a larger painting created with the inks floating together in a method similar to watercolor floating technique. — See more previews of Justine's paintings on page 2.

Among the new paintings at this year's Hidden in the Hills Tour, look for Justine's beginning of a series of Red Rock Crossing paintings with the first one, "Red Rock Crossing/Spring Awakening". The painting was a challenge to create the view of new greens peeking out from the white and leafless cottonwood trees. She began by etching and painting the rhythmic lines of the back tree branches along with the bark and roots of the tree stretching across the waters. The finished painting emphasizes the rhythmic movement of the overlapping trees and branches contrasted by the tree and its roots with the water's movement below and moving to the background.

- Justine is beginning work on the second Red Rock Crossing painting with a dark tree crossing above with the emphasis on the moving water. Look for her third painting in the series which will feature water flowing over rocks.

- Justine's "A Yard Full of Sun" returns to her favorite theme of sunflowers. She found this group in front of a cabin. The painting uses pearlescent golds and greens to create the dynamic sunflowers.
